City's police cells bursting at the seams

Code red. Despite going decades without more cells, proposed new unit is first on chopping block

RYAN TUMILTY
ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

The number of people coming through Edmonton police cells has never been higher, leading officers to more frequently close the doors to the downtown facility.

Numbers obtained by Metro show more than 16,000 people came through detainee management in 2013, compared to just 9,316 in 2009.

Sgt. Mark Farnell pointed to the combination of a growing city and a unit that hasn't expanded since first opening in 1982.

"Realistically, apart from a lick of paint here and there, we have had no real change," he said. "Our cell capacity has always remained status quo."

Those pressures have forced the unit to declare code reds more often, a term for when new prisoners can't be accommodated.

In the first three months of 2014, the unit was under code red for more than 73 hours. Since April 1, the unit has been in that spot for an additional 43 hours.

Farnell said the unit spent most of the past long weekend in a code red but stressed that doesn't mean total closure.

"Did it mean we stopped taking prisoners? No, it just meant we had to control them coming in," he said.

He said the unit also has to deal with code yellow situations, in which the unit is still open but they're selective about prisoner types, based on mix of current prisoners.

Edmonton police have requested $17.5 million more for the proposed Northwest Police Campus, which would include a new detainee management unit.

The total project cost would climb to $99 million; Chief Rod Knecht has said that without the increase the detainee management unit would have to be dropped.

Coun. Dave Loken said the budget decision will be difficult but it's helpful for council to understand just how much pressure the force is under.

School boards OK HPV vaccine

Eight years after the vaccine was first brought to Canada, the last of Alberta's 10 resisting school districts has OK'd the delivery of immunizations for human papillomavirus (HPV) to its students.

HPV Canada's Juliet Guichon said the decision from last week's St. Thomas Aquinas Roman Catholic (STAR) School Board meeting is a relief.

"It means all children, rich and poor, will have easy access for a public health program to which their parents have consented," Guichon said.

Canada first purchased the drug for $300 million in 2007. In 2008 Alberta rolled out the vaccination program. Guichon said a lot of original apprehension for the drug came from the misconception the vaccine would promote promiscuity.

"In the end, it's the triumph over fear, of caring for children over fearing something that is not real," she said.

STAR board chair Sandra Bannard said originally the board was concerned about the newness of the vaccine and about sending mixed messages when it comes to premarital sex.

"I think that would encompass the two most cautionary notes for the decision made in 2008," she added.

While the concerns may still resonate for some individuals, Bannard said the district wanted the vaccine to be a parental choice, not a school board decision.

"The role our school has is an access point for the students to obtain it by," she said. LEAH GERMAIN/METRO

Simulated explosive threat. Getting prepared in case of an emergency Emergency Response Services at the Edmonton International Airport (EIA) tested their emergency skills as they responded to a simulated explosive threat on Tuesday. The RCMP Explosive Disposal Unit responded in the mock emergency scene at the airport.

"Safety and security are core values at EIA because they are critical to success," said Steve Rumley, EIA Vice President of Operations and Infrastructure in a media release. METRO

Dangerous offender. Man who brutally beat bus driver loses appeal

A man who beat an Edmonton transit bus driver so badly that he suffered brain injuries has lost an appeal of a dangerous offender designation that keeps him in prison indefinitely.

Gary Mattson pleaded guilty to aggravated assault in the attack on Thom Bregg in December 2009 over a fare dispute.

An intoxicated Mattson punched Bregg in the face, then pulled him from the bus and stomped on him more than a dozen times.

The bus driver spent two weeks in intensive care and was left disfigured and blind in one eye.

Mattson wanted the Alberta Court of Appeal to overturn the dangerous offender designation, but the judges refused.

They said it would appear Mattson needs ongoing treatment while remaining behind bars. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cyclist-made signs critical to trails: Bike group member

Familiarity. City asks for standard look

leah.germain@metronews.ca

What do Victoria's Secret, Purple Haze and Bobsled have in common?

They're just a few of the names affectionately bestowed on signs posted throughout Edmonton's river valley, identifying popular trails. Created by a collection of the city's different mountain bike crews, the hand-painted signs were called into question earlier this week when a city official instructed Edmonton's Mountain Bike Alliance to take them down.

While the confusion was cleared up Tuesday, Mike Webb of river valley operations said the groups responsible for the signs need to make some changes to their work.

"The signs that are up are quite nice looking. What I'd like to do is standardize that," said Webb, adding the signs will need to be removed from trees and re-posted on signposts.

Garry Ogletree of Edmonton Mountain Bike Alliance said introducing signage to the river valley is critical. "This is a world-class network of single track," he said. "When people come from out of town, you can't guide them to go anywhere. There's no maps and there's no names."

Ogletree said different mountain biking groups throughout the city have invested hundreds of volunteer hours to preserve the trails in the river valley and have used common names for different trails they oversee.

Rollercoaster is just one of the popular mountain bike trails in Edmonton's River Valley. The trail is located off Ravine Drive in MacKinnon Ravine Park. LEAH GERMAIN/METRO

Basement-suite grant program shuts doors for one city man

Zoning issues.

Resident says he wanted city help and now feels like he's being harassed

RYAN TUMILTY
ryan.tumilty@metronews.ca

An Edmonton man, hoping to use a city program to renovate his basement suite, is instead being forced to close it down.

Max Espinoza applied through the city's secondary suite program to help upgrade the basement suite in his house, only to find his McCauley home isn't zoned for it.

He said he only found out the bad news after several inspectors had visited his house and signed off on it.

"It looked like everything was fine and then suddenly I get a notice that I had been rejected for the funding," he said.

Espinoza said the suite was part of the house when he moved in and he saw many other suites in the neighbourhood, so he was surprised to be told special zoning prevented him from putting one there.

After being told his house wasn't zoned for the suite, Espinoza said, he's gone through a troublesome decommissioning process. "I have had to remove doors. I have had to change locks. They've taken pictures of my place and they keep coming back and back and back," he said.

He said he wanted city help and now feels like he's being harassed. "I was actually one of the poor suckers who thought the city was going to give me some help or assistance to upgrade my place," he said.

Senior planner Jamie Doyle said the city has encountered similar situations in the past

Grant program

- Between 2006 and 2011, the first version of the city's program helped fund 553 secondary suites.
- Council committed an additional $3 million to the program in 2013 aiming to help with another 450 suites before 2016. The city has received 11 applications this year.

where a suite is illegal for zoning reasons or for more serious safety concerns, but they do their best to resolve the issue.

"We like to work with every applicant, whether it be a decommission or whether it be an approval," he said.

Doyle said with up to $20,000 available for homeowners, it makes sense for people to at least think about it.

Officials encourage more people to seek measles vaccines

An expanded vaccination program has reached 10,000 people in the Edmonton area since a measles outbreak began, but the area's chief medical officer said more people should be rolling up their sleeves.

Dr. Marcia Johnson, the Edmonton zone's chief medical officer of health, said 10,000 doses is a good number, but with two more cases reported Monday, they would like to be reaching more people.

"We're happy to immunize more and we would like to immunize more," she said.

Johnson said people could easily get an immunization for themselves or their children if they needed one.

"We have lots of capacity in the public health centres — it's just a phone call away," she said.

Johnson said AHS is also working to track down people who have been to clinics, daycare centres and other places where there has been a public exposure.

She said in cases with broader public exposures, where it would be difficult for AHS to know who was there, they're using the media to get the word out.

The most recent case involved a public exposure at West Edmonton Mall on May 16.

In addition to getting immunized, Johnson asked people who might have been exposed and are feeling symptoms to avoid clinics or emergency rooms.

Edmonton film Rock Paper Dice Enter gets international attention

DUBOIS

Filmmakers in India got a taste of Edmonton on the big screen and liked what they saw all thanks to one film making waves abroad.

After deciding to take a copy of the film Rock Paper Dice Enter on a personal vacation, film creator Kash Gauni and director Shreela Chakrabarty were able to arrange a screening with India's biggest cinema chain, launching it into the international market.

Edmontonians would recognize many of the local backdrops featured in the film, including 104 Street, the LRT system and the Edmonton International Airport.

Chakrabarty said the city was a great place to shoot their edgy film since Alberta's capital city provided an interesting dynamic that shone through on the silver screen.

"As someone from Edmonton and part of the film and art industry, I always knew what Edmonton could offer. Edmonton is a power city," said Chakrabarty.

Classified as a suspense thriller, the film broadly involves a diamond heist and a mystery caller.

But there was suspense off-screen, too, as Chakrabarty and Gauni, didn't meet in person until halfway through the filming process. They say it helped them develop a trusting working relationship that showed on screen.

"Our film is like a breath of fresh air," said Gauni.

Using a staff of mostly Edmontonians, the film also features Gauni as the mystery caller in the film, set to hit Landmark theatres across Canada on June 6.

Groupie granny goes Gaga

Inez Whitfield got the thrill of a lifetime when she was called backstage to meet pop music superstar Lady Gaga after a concert Monday night.

Dubbed "Granny Gaga" because of her fondness for the singer, the retired teacher had planned months ago to attend her second Gaga show.

Her daughter Kendra said her mother has been a fan of Gaga's since seeing the singer on the Oprah Winfrey show years ago.

"She knows good music when she hears it and she loves what Gaga stands for ... being creative and outrageous and not giving a flying fig what anyone thinks of you," Whitfield's daughter said.

As Kendra wheeled her mother out of the arena to a cab before the encore, two security guards chased them down and took them backstage for an audience with the megastar.

They posed for some photos and Gaga gave them some cash to pay for their cab ride home.

Gaga later posted a photo on her Instagram page — Whitfield in her sparkly silver dress, feather boa and tiara, and the singer in dark sunglasses and a tight black outfit. THE CANADIAN PRESS

A teenager was taken to hospital with unknown injuries Tuesday afternoon after an assault that happened at a Grande Prairie high school.

Grande Prairie RCMP are investigating an alleged incident involving a 17-year-old male who was assaulted by two other students in the parking lot outside of the Composite High School at approximately 1:20 p.m.

The initial investigation indicates that the victim was attacked with weapons that might have included a baseball bat and an extendable baton.

'Honour killing.' 20 members of woman's family attack couple outside court in Lahore

A pregnant woman was stoned to death by her own family in front of a Pakistani high court on Tuesday for marrying the man she loved.

of onlookers outside the high court of Lahore, police investigator Rana Mujahid said.

Hundreds of women are murdered every year in Muslim-majority Pakistan in so-called "honour killings" carried out by husbands or relatives as a punishment for alleged adultery or other illicit sexual behaviour, but public stoning is extremely rare.

Mujahid said the woman's father has been arrested for murder and that police were working to apprehend all those who participated in the "heinous crime."

Another officer identified the slain woman as Farzana Parveen, 25, and said she had married Mohammad Iqbal against her family's wishes.

Her father, Mohammad Azeem, had filed an abduction case against Iqbal, which the couple was contesting, her lawyer Mustafa Kharal said. He confirmed that she was three months' pregnant.

Flood reveals human remains

Last week's record flooding in Bosnia has uncovered human remains experts believe belong to people who went missing during the country's 1992-95 war.

Lejla Cengic of Bosnia's Institute for Missing Persons said Tuesday that teams fixing power lines discovered the remains near the northern town of Doboj. Nearly 30,000 people went missing during the Yugoslav wars of the 1990s. One third of them have been found in mass graves, mostly in Bosnia. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Obama's plan. 9,800 troops to remain after war ends in Afghanistan

President Barack Obama will seek to keep 9,800 U.S. troops in Afghanistan after the war formally ends later this year and then will withdraw most of those forces by 2016, senior administration officials said Tuesday.

Obama's decision is largely in line with what military commanders have been seeking and will allow the president to fully end the American-led military effort by the time he leaves office.

The two-year plan is contingent on the Afghan government signing a bilateral security agreement with the U.S. While current Afghan President Hamid Karzai has declined to sign the agreement, U.S. officials are confident that either of the candidates seeking to replace him would approve it.

The plan calls for the U.S. military to draw down from its current force of 32,000 to 9,800 by the start of next year. Those troops would be dispatched throughout Afghanistan and focus on counterterrorism missions and training Afghan security forces.

Commons defence committee. Commander grilled after damning magazine story says assault at epidemic level

The country's top military commander has been called on the parliamentary carpet to answer questions about reports of sexual violence in the military.

Gen. Tom Lawson, the chief of defence staff, was grilled Tuesday by the Commons defence committee about a recent magazine report that claimed sex assaults within the ranks are at an epidemic level.

The story, published by Maclean's and L'actualité magazines, interviewed several victims and examined a decade's worth of statistics documenting reported attacks.

Lawson told the committee he found the allegations disturbing, and acknowledged the courage of those victims who spoke out.

An internal review carried out since the claims were first reported last month has identified "some barriers" that prevent alleged victims from coming forward, he testified.

Lawson said an independent review from outside the military is being organized, one that will have the authority to interview military mem-

The magazine story said military police get as many as 200 complaints of sexual assault each year, with many more cases going unreported by victims who fear the potential consequences from within the military hierarchy.

bers and could potentially uncover fresh allegations of assault.

But he said he does not accept the notion that sexual violence and harassment are part of military culture, citing a recent internal survey that suggested harassment of all kinds has been declining steadily over the last decade.

Lawson said only a small percentage of those who took part in the 2012 survey said they've faced harassment, but he conceded the numbers are higher when the results are parsed by gender.

"I think there is an under-reporting going on," Lawson said, "and we need to do everything we can to deal with any issues that stand in the way of someone coming forward."

But defence critic Jack Harris didn't buy those assurances, saying that the issue has resurfaced time and again since a similar media exposé was written in the late 1990s.

Donetsk mayor says dozens killed; rebels say toll could be 100

People carry sandbags to set up a shooting position as a pro-Russian gunman watches on the road leading from the airport to Donetsk, Ukraine, Tuesday. The city was in turmoil Tuesday, a day after government forces used fighter jets to stop insurgents from taking over the airport. Donetsk's mayor said 40 people were killed in Monday's fighting, while rebel leaders said the death toll could be as many as 100. VADIM GHIRDA/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'They are just dancing.' Iranians should be free to be Happy, Pharrell says

Pharrell Williams says everyone should be able to celebrate their joy — including Iranian youths who were arrested for posting an Internet video of them dancing to his song Happy.

Some in Iran see the video as promoting the spread of Western culture. Iranian laws ban women from dancing in public or appearing outside with heads uncovered.

Williams says he has "the utmost respect for people's religious views" and doesn't know much about Iranian law.

But he added: "The present is a gift, and if you just want

Speaking at an exhibit opening in Paris Monday, he said, "They are just dancing."

Parents grateful after spread of Amber Alert on social media leads online sleuths to help locate missing baby

The mother of a day-old infant snatched from a Quebec hospital says she's grateful to everyone who helped bring home her baby — especially the group of people who used social media to hunt down the alleged kidnapper.

Police issued an Amber

Quoted

"I don't realize it (yet), I'm just a person like (anybody else) and I saved a life."

Charlene Plante, one of the four online sleuths who helped find baby Victoria Alert on Monday night after the newborn was abducted from the mother's hospital room in Trois-Rivières by a woman allegedly wearing scrubs and posing as a nurse.

The alert, which included a security-camera photo of the suspect and a description of her car, was splashed across mainstream and social media within minutes.

Four young locals wasted little time picking up the cause and guided police to the woman's home, where officers found the baby safe three hours later. Police also arrested a woman in her early 20s in connection with the kidnapping.

"Every click, every share made the difference," Melissa McMahon, the infant's mother, wrote Tuesday in a post on her Facebook page.

"Four marvellous people, whom we had the chance to meet, identified this woman thanks to Facebook ... We felt a huge amount of support from the public. This victory is for you, too!!!"

The online detectives who helped find baby Victoria were identified as Charlene Plante, Marc-Andre Cote, Sharelle Bergeron and Melizanne Bergeron.

Melizanne Bergeron told reporters Tuesday in Trois-Rivières that she came across the information about the kidnapping on Facebook and showed the photo of the suspect to her friend Plante, who realized the woman was her neighbour.

She said they spotted the vehicle described in the alert parked outside the building, saw signs that someone was inside and called police. Officers, she added, arrived on the scene quickly and broke down the woman's door.

"Thirty seconds after, the baby was in the hands of the police," said Melizanne Bergeron, who touched Victoria as the officer cradling her walked past. "It was the best moment in my life. We were crying."

Ministers unveil effort to educate girls about harm of sexual images

A public education campaign on cybersafety for girls that began four years ago in Atlantic Canada has added a section to educate girls about images depicting women as sexual objects.

The Atlantic ministers responsible for the status of women met in Charlottetown Tuesday to announce a new addition to a website set up to promote online safety for girls, which now includes information about the effects that the depiction of women and girls as sexual objects can have on self-esteem, self-confidence and self-image.

Valerie Docherty, the minister responsible for the status of women in Prince Edward Island, says "hypersexualization" can be an uncomfortable topic but it's important to have the conversation.

Docherty was joined by her Atlantic colleagues, Marie-Claude Blais from New Brunswick, Joan Shea from Newfoundland and Labrador and Joanne Bernard from Nova Scotia.

Two new safety rules slapped on Keystone XL

Canada-to-Texas. After news of defects, extra safety conditions were added on construction of oil pipeline project

Safety regulators have quietly placed two extra conditions on construction of TransCanada Corp.'s Keystone XL oil pipeline after learning of potentially dangerous construction defects involving the southern leg of the Canada-to-Texas project.

The defects — high rates of bad welds, dented pipe and damaged pipeline coating — have been fixed. But the federal Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration wants to make sure similar problems don't occur during construction of the pipeline's controversial northern segment, which is on hold pending a decision by the Obama administration.

One condition requires TransCanada to hire a third-party contractor chosen by the pipeline safety agency to monitor the construction and make reports to the U.S. government on whether the work is sound.

The second requires TransCanada to adopt a quality management program to ensure "this pipeline is — from the beginning — built to the highest standards by both Keystone personnel and its many contractors."

The new conditions were added four months after the pipeline safety agency sent TransCanada two warning letters last year about defects and other construction problems on the Keystone Gulf Coast Pipeline, which extends from Oklahoma to the Texas Gulf Coast.

"From the start of welding, TransCanada experienced a high weld rejection rate," said one letter dated Sept. 26. Over 72 per cent of welds required repairs during one week. In another week, TransCanada stopped welding work after 205 of 425 welds required repair. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WORKPLACE GIVERS GET ALL THE LOVE

Never mind butcher, baker or candlestick maker.

The people who float your workplace boat these days are takers, matchers and givers, according to a rising star in workaday psychology, Adam Grant, the youngest full professor at the Wharton School.

This guy is only 32, but he's already figured out how to navigate the concrete jungle and has written a New York Times bestseller about it, called, naturally, Give and Take. He's also the subject of a recent article in Slate.

Even though Grant has the fast-track record we usually associate with a taker — those Gordon-Gecko-greed-is-good types so familiar in the mythology of corporate America — he tries to be a giver, not just because his research shows that nice guys (and girls) can finish first.

Givers are defined by the fact that they will take care of

JUST SAYIN'
Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

other people with no expectation of reward. They do it precisely because they are selfless. So you can't game the give.

Most of us are matchers in the middle — I'll scratch your back with the understanding that you, at some point very soon, will scratch mine. Other people respect the matcher ethos, but no one actually loves a matcher, unless it's the matcher's mother, who is, by nature, a giver.

All the love is reserved for givers. Givers sow the seeds of harmony wherever they go. People want to work with them because they trust them ... and know they'll share the glory and take the blame.

Do you know anybody like that? If you do, you probably follow them around with big puppy eyes.

Takers are toxic. Grant says it's a good idea to keep a wooden stake, silver bullet and string of garlic handy to ward them off. Well, he doesn't put it in precisely those terms, but he does say that the negative impact of a taker can be three times that of the positive impact of a giver.

They suck the lifeblood out of an organization.

There is an easy way to spot a taker and it's not only because he or she doesn't drink ... wine. "The main sign that someone's a taker is kissing up and kicking down," he writes.

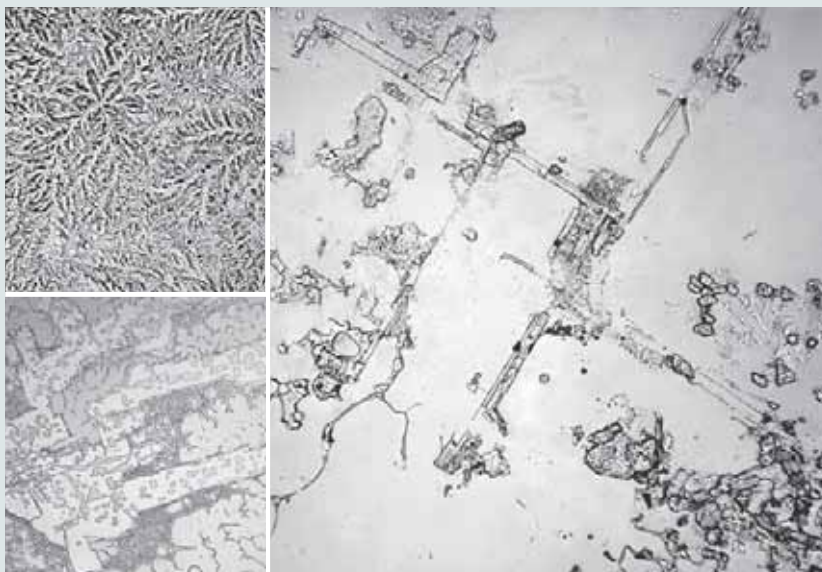

Just because you're a giver doesn't mean you put a Kick Me sign on your back before you go to work in the morning. Winning givers don't allow themselves to be kicked or stepped on; they don't overdo the giving to the detriment of their own work, and they give on a smartly scheduled basis as opposed to on impulse or whim.

Whatever you think (stop rolling your eyes), I think it's good to have permission to be a nice person. It's ironic to discover that while we've spent our lives learning to eat other dogs, happiness is a warm puppy.

And if you're a little bit good at being good, the rewards will come in your lifetime. Good dog!

Art that's worth crying over

'Aerial view of my emotions'

ROSE-LYNN FISHER
Artist-photographer based in Los Angeles

What inspired you to turn human tears into art?

One day I was crying but stopped and wondered if my tears of grief would look any different from tears of happiness. When I magnified them on a microscope, what I saw evoked a sense of place, like an aerial view of my emotional terrain. I was so intrigued by this that I started a project, which now comprises 100 of my own and others' tears.

How did you go about photographing the tears?

I collect a tear, put it onto a glass slide and view it through a standard microscope, magnified 10 to 40 times. After the tear sample has been either air-dried or covered, I photograph it using a digital microscopy camera.

They do look like strange landscapes.

Exactly. I marvel at the visual similarities between the microscopic world and the macro world of landscapes. Patterns of erosion etched into the earth over millions of years can look like the branched crystalline patterns of an evaporated tear that formed in less than a minute.

Worth mentioning. USDA projects to help protect soil, water quality

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is teaming with businesses, non-profits and others on a five-year, $2.4-billion program that will fund locally designed soil and water conservation projects nationwide, Secretary Tom Vilsack said Tuesday.

Authorized by the new farm law enacted earlier this year, the Regional Conservation Partnership Program is intended to involve the private sector more directly in planning and funding environmental protection initiatives tied to agriculture.

He described the projects to be funded as "clean water startup operations" that will benefit communities and watersheds, a departure from the department's more traditional approach of focusing on individual operators adopting

"It's a new approach to conservation that is really going to encourage people to think in very innovative and creative ways."

Secretary Tom Vilsack

practices such as no-till cultivation or planting buffer strips to prevent runoff into streams.

Universities, local and tribal governments, companies and sporting groups are among those eligible to devise plans and seek grants.

"By establishing new public-private partnerships, we can have an impact that's well beyond what the federal government could accomplish on its own," Vilsack said. "These efforts keep our land resilient and water clean, and promote tremendous economic growth in agriculture, construction, tourism and outdoor recreation and other industries."

In addition to protecting the environment, the projects will bolster the rural economy by supporting tourism and outdoor recreation jobs while avoiding pollution that would cost more to clean up, he said.

The USDA will spend $1.2 billion — including $400 million the first year — and raise an equal amount from participants. Successful applications will include offers of cash, labour or other contributions, as well as plans for achieving measurable solutions and using new approaches, said Jason Weller, chief of the Natural Resources Conservation Service. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Do you know why a mortgage document is so big?

It's because there's a lot more in it than just the rate.

Why lowest isn't always best.

Don't get us wrong. A low rate is great. But most low rate mortgages come with restrictive terms that could keep you in your mortgage longer than you'd like. Which means paying interest longer than you'd like. So, instead of thinking about the cost of your mortgage in rate terms, think about it in dollar terms. For example, how much interest will you pay over the life of your mortgage?

How restrictive terms cost you in the end.

The key to saving interest costs is having the flexibility to increase payments or make extra payments. With rates as low as they are, regular lump sum and increased payments will save you more interest over the life of your mortgage. Even more than switching to bi-weekly payments!†

Good advice is worth its weight in gold.

Locking in at today's low rates might be right for you. But keep in mind that small changes can make a big difference in helping you become mortgage-free faster so keeping that flexibility is essential.

* All mortgages are subject to applicable credit approval, Scotiabank residential mortgage standards and maximum permitted loan amounts. Scotiabank 5-Year Fixed Rate Special – The new mortgage must be set up as a 5-year closed term fixed rate mortgage at a rate of 2.97%. As of May 22nd, 2014, if there are no 'cost of borrowing' charges (for example, appraisal fees), the APR for the rate of 2.97% equals 2.95% (compounded semi-annually, not in advance). Where a typical appraisal fee of $300 is assumed (actual appraisal fees may vary), the APR equals 3.02% (compounded semi-annually, not in advance), for a term of 5 years – assuming a mortgage of $100,000 with a 25-year amortization. Scotia Flex Value® Mortgage Special – Scotiabank Prime as of September 9, 2010 was 3.00%. As of May 22nd, 2014, the Scotia Flex Value® Mortgage – Closed 5 Year Term was 2.47%. If there are no 'cost of borrowing' charges (for example, appraisal fees), the APR for the rate of 2.47% equals 2.46% (compounded semi-annually, not in advance). Where a typical appraisal fee of $300 is assumed (actual appraisal fees may vary), the APR equals 2.52% (compounded semi-annually, not in advance), for a term of 5 years – assuming a mortgage of $100,000 with a 25-year amortization. The Scotia Flex Value® Mortgage interest rate varies with Scotiabank Prime. These offers expire June 7th, 2014 but are subject to change or withdrawal at any time. The mortgage must be funded within 90 days of the application date. Other conditions may apply.

† Assuming a mortgage of $270,000 with a 25-year amortization at a rate of 2.97%, switching to bi-weekly payments will decrease your amortization to less than 23 years and save you approximately $14,130 in interest. Alternatively, assuming the same mortgage of $270,000 with a 25-year amortization at a rate of 2.97%, if you keep your monthly payment frequency but apply annual lump sum prepayments of $500 and increase your regular payments by just $20 every year, after your first year, you will decrease your amortization to less than 21 years and save approximately $18,923 in interest.

Disney has its wicked ways

Bold child's play

Angelina Jolie all in as villain

Angelina Jolie taking on the title role in Maleficent, telling the story of Sleeping Beauty from the villain's perspective, might have seemed like a no-brainer, but Jolie herself had her doubts. "I was a bit nervous to take her on. I don't have a big theatre voice. I don't do things that are kind of comedic. This is such a crazy idea. I'm a fairy? 'How was your day, honey?' 'I was a fairy,'" Jolie remembers telling husband Brad Pitt. "I was so challenged by it. For me as an actress to do something where I'm not taking myself so seriously or doing it for myself or doing it for art — just to remember what it is to play and entertain and try something bold."

But once she had the horns and the headdress and the augmented cheekbones and nose in place, she just went with it. "There's no halfway. If you're going to do it, you can't just kind of do it. You have to go fully into it and enjoy it," she says. "The original was done so well and her voice was so great. The way she was animated was so perfect. If anything, I was worried I'd fail the original. I practised a lot with my children. When I got them laughing, I figured I was on to something — well, they laughed, they cried." NED EHRBAR/MWN

It's not all Mouse ears. Disney horns in on the dark side of fairy tales from the winged demon of Fantasia to Maleficent

IN FOCUS
Richard Crouse
scene@metronews.ca

Hear the name Disney, and your first thoughts are likely about Mickey Mouse ears, Mary Poppins or the song Let it Go. Uplifting notions born from a company that brags it owns the Happiest Place on Earth.

But for all the cheery feelings the Mouse House has given us over the years, Disney villains have also inspired a nightmare or two.

This weekend, Maleficent creeps into theatres. Starring Angelina Jolie, it is the story of how the Sleeping Beauty villainess became evil after being betrayed by a child. With plumped up cheekbones and headgear with demonic horns, Jolie looks like something from a hellish Hieronymus Bosch painting.

"She isn't the pretty princess," says the actress. "She isn't a beautiful queen. She's a very awkward, pointy, slightly scary-looking horned creature who goes through a lot in her life."

Maleficent joins a long list of dastardly Disney villains to inspire sleepless nights.

Scar

In The Lion King, Scar (voice of Jeremy Irons)

is the brother of the king, Mufasa (James Earl Jones). In a Shakespearean twist, Scar murders his brother and banishes his nephew to gain control of Pride Rock.

Most evil line? "Long live the King." — Scar to Mufasa before killing him.

Cruella De Vil

In the 1961 animated film and the 1996 live-action film, 101 Dalmatians, Cruella De Vil (voice of Betty Lou Gerson in the cartoon, Glenn Close in the flesh) is a diabolical fashionista who wants to incorporate puppy pelts into her wardrobe.

Most evil line? "Darling, I live for fur. I worship fur!"

Queen Grimhilde

Vanity pushes Queen Grimhilde (Lucille La Verne in the 1937 animated version) to try and destroy the life of her stepdaughter (Adriana Caselotti) in Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs. The evil queen can't bear the thought that there is some more beautiful than she, so she first orders her huntsman to kill Snow White and cut her heart out and when that doesn't work, she feeds the pretty girl a poisoned apple.

Most evil line? "Mirror, Mirror on the wall, who's the fairest of them all?"

Chernabog

Hands down, the scariest vision in any Disney film has to be Chernabog, the winged demon who briefly appears in the Night on Bald

Mountain sequence of Fantasia. He is the essence of evil and according to Villians Wiki, his hobby is bringing the dead back to life so he can kill them again. Discussing the character in an interview, Walt Disney referred to him as Satan.

Most evil line? Chernabog doesn't have any lines. When you're this bad, you don't need dialogue.

Winnipeg magician Darcy Oake may have vanished on a British talent show Monday night, but his act has secured him an appearance in the final round. Oake began his performance on Britain's Got Talent sitting on a chair perched on a podium and draped in a sheet. Moments later the sheet was removed and Oake was gone — but he reappeared dressed as a cameraman filming the illusion. Brown University. Emma Watson escorted by armed undercover guard at grad

Emma Watson had an armed guard with her during graduation ceremonies at Brown University, and a university spokesman says he is unable to answer questions about why.

The 24-year-old British actress best known for her role as Hermione Granger in the Harry Potter movies was one of more than 2,000 students to get her degree from the Ivy League university in Providence on Sunday.

She was photographed sitting and walking next to a woman who was wearing a cap and gown. The same woman, who was older than Watson and her fellow graduates, was later seen escorting Watson without a cap and gown and with a holstered weapon, a badge and other equipment.

When asked if the woman was a campus police officer and why the guard was necessary, Brown spokesman Mark Nickel said on Tuesday he was "not able to help."

Kendall just can't get over Harry Styles

Well, this is awkward. While Harry Styles and Kendall Jenner's brief romance has been over for months, Jenner reportedly "just can't get him out of her head" and hasn't stopped calling the One Direction star "despite their romance fizzling out months ago," according to Star magazine.

"Now Kendall desperately wants him back. She loved the attention dating Harry gave her, plus she really fell for him big time," a source says.

"Kendall really opened up to him and he did nothing but use her. That hasn't stopped her from dreaming of a rematch, and after a night out with the girls she'll come home and start calling him.

"Harry rarely takes her calls because he knows when he's pushed his luck when it comes to a woman's heart and Kendall's got it bad for him. He doesn't want to encourage her, but it's turning into an embarrassing situation — for both of them."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Manhattan's got a friend in David Schwimmer

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News in New York City

David Schwimmer is one of the Friends I'd vaguely lost track of since the series came to an end. Is he the one playing an aging sitcom star on cable? No, that's Lisa Kudrow. Is he the one who's totally over Brad Pitt? That's Jennifer Aniston. Oh, now I remember. David Schwimmer is the one who battles crime.

Well, he fought for justice this week at least. Police were investigating an altercation between a suspected male prostitute, his john, and a third man that broke out at 5:40 a.m.

on East Sixth Street in Manhattan's East Village, where the sitcom star owns a brownstone.

The 26-year-old john was taken to Bellevue Hospital with stab wounds on his face, while the 21-year-old alleged prostitute was treated for slashes on his arm. Police had only one man's word against the other's until they realized that security cameras outside Schwimmer's home had caught footage of the altercation, according to the New York Post. Schwimmer gave the NYPD the tape, which might be used in court.

Schwimmer bought his brownstone for $4 million US in 2012, and he's been heavily renovating it ever since, to the consternation of his neighbours. However, this incident might convince the other Sixth Street residents that good Friends make good neighbours after all.

Macaulay's 'pizza band' too cheesy for British audience

It was a Blues Brothers moment for actor Macaulay Culkin and his band Pizza Underground on Sunday at the Dot to Dot Festival in Nottingham, England, when fans turned on the comedy cover group by booing them and even throwing beer onstage.

Unfortunately, Mac couldn't turn it around with a pizza-themed version of Rawhide to get the crowd going; the Home Alone star and the rest of Pizza Underground allegedly walked off stage smelling like booze after only three songs — but not before they performed a cover of Lou Reed's Perfect Day, calling it Pizza Day.

Culkin's band covers Velvet Underground and Lou

Daniel Radcliffe's battles with alcohol caused by motor disorder

According to a new tell-all book, Harry Potter star Daniel Radcliffe's early battles with alcohol came about because of a debilitating motor disorder, author Randy Jernigan tells Radar Online. "He would go into episodes where he couldn't do anything, even tie his shoes. Daniel felt it held him back in a lot of ways. He didn't feel like a normal kid. He felt lost."

Radcliffe reportedly turned to alcohol to deal with the condition, and things came to a head when he moved into his own place at 17. "He became totally dependent on alcohol," Jernigan says. "He tried to hide his issues behind the drink."

While Radcliffe famously sobered up, he apparently had a relapse while preparing for his first go at the play The Cripple of Inishmaan in London in 2012. "The show took a lot out of him," the author says. "He relapsed because he went back to his old ways of thinking. He felt like he wasn't good enough."

But the star has been clean and sober since the relapse, even as the show has moved to Broadway. Instead of drinking, Radcliffe is now apparently addicted to books. "He has a passion for reading. He reads one book after another," Jernigan explains.

Where the buffalo roam

Yellowstone. This massive, famed park stretches across three states — you need a plan to see it all Old Faithful likely comes to mind when you think of Yellowstone National Park. And it's certainly worth seeing, along with other geysers. But the geysers are just the start of what Yellowstone offers: hiking, biking, camping, fishing, wildlife-spotting and more. Yellowstone National Park covers 8,992 square kilometres over three states — Wyoming, Idaho and Montana.

With stops along the way, it can take two full days to drive the 230-kilometre Grand Loop. Here are some Yellowstone basics, starting with the geysers.

Geysers

Most of the park's easily accessible and most famous geysers are concentrated along a 50-kilometre drive in the middle of the park, from West Thumb, Wyo. to Madison Junction, Wyo. and can be seen in a half-day.

Park visitor centres can provide predicted eruption times for about a half-dozen geysers. Some predictions are in windows of several hours, so you'll likely spend some time waiting. Old Faithful erupts every 60 to 90 minutes. The exact timing depends on the previous eruption, so the park can predict only one eruption at a time.

Several other geysers are within walking distance, including the tiny Anemone erupting every 10 minutes or so. A few more clusters of geysers and hot springs are a short drive north along Grand Loop.

If your timing is right, don't miss the Grand Geyser, the tallest predictable geyser in the world, reaching as high as 60 metres and lasting up to 12 minutes. You might have to wait a few hours, though. The Grand Geyser has been erupting every seven or eight hours.

Hikes

The Divide hike is about 5.6 kilometres round trip and takes you to the Continental Divide, the line where water flows toward the Atlantic from one side and toward the Pacific from the other. There's no sign or any other marker at the top, so you'll have to use your imagination. The park rates the hike as moderately strenuous, given the climb of about 225 metres. Mystic Falls is more scenic. The start of the trail is close to the Biscuit Basin cluster of geysers, so you can get geysers and a hike both out of the way with one stop.

Give yourself at least two hours for the drive from the geysers to Mount Washburn. The trail to the top is well-maintained, but the hike isn't for those out of shape: You'll climb some 427 metres to an elevation of 3,122 metres. There are two ways up: The longer route, from Dunraven Pass, is about five kilometres each way, but it's less steep than the Chittenden Road option. Take the same route down; the parking lots for each trailhead are 10 kilometres apart.

In the distance, you can glimpse Yellowstone's version of Grand Canyon, a gorge formed by the Yellowstone River. There's a fire lookout tower with an observation deck at the top.

Grand Canyon

Yellowstone's Grand Canyon

is worth its own visit. You have several long or short hikes to choose from, along either side of the canyon. If you're pressed for time, drive to the Upper and Lower Falls and view the rapids before a pair of drops into the canyon. For both falls, use paved overlooks or take short hikes for closer views. Visit the Upper Falls in the afternoon for a chance to see rainbows.

Wildlife and driving

Yellowstone is home to bison, moose, elk, bighorn sheep, wolves and grizzly bears. If you're looking to see a certain type of animal, ask at visitor centres where to go and the best time of day. Cars stopped or parked haphazardly along a road usually means there's something worth seeing. You can't miss the bison herds, but for other creatures, you may need binoculars.

Biking and Boating

You can bike along the Grand Loop on your own bike or by renting one near Old Faithful. There are boating and fishing opportunities as well; permits are required.

Getting there and lodging

The Grand Prismatic Spring in Yellowstone National Park.

JIM PEACO/YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK (FLICKR: YELLOWSTONENPS)

The bulk of the park is in northwest Wyoming and has five entrances, with gateway towns offering food and lodging.

The drive from the entrances to the main loop is long, so plan your access point and lodging carefully. There are nine lodges inside the park; consider switching hotels each night to be closer to another part of the park the next morning.

The park has a dozen campgrounds. Seven are first come, first served. Reservations for the others and for the lodges fill up fast.

Nearest airports with car rentals are in Cody and Jackson, Wyoming; Bozeman, Billings and West Yellowstone, Montana; and Idaho Falls, Idaho. If you have time, it may be cheaper to fly to Denver and drive the 885 kilometres to the park via Cody. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hitting the road in eastern Europe

Cars and Krakow. The transit isn't always reliable, so why not take matters into your own hands and drive?

ON THE MOVE
Loren Christie
life@metronews.ca

Eastern Europe, with its occasionally inconvenient train schedules, is the perfect destination for a week-long road trip.

Arrive by air in Krakow, Poland

Home to the largest market square in Europe and the stunning Wawel Castle, Krakow is the perfect size to explore on foot. The proliferation of statues and portraits of recently canonized Pope John Paul II is a reminder of this town's pride for its most famous son.

Oskar Schindler, the German war profiteer who redeemed himself by saving thousands of Jewish lives during the Second World War, is another famous former inhabitant.

His factory, made recognizable to many in Steven Spielberg's film, Schindler's List, is now a fascinating museum. Wander around the Jewish quarter, the Kazimierz, and break bread at one of the lively restaurants surrounding the small square.

Drive to Auschwitz-Birkenau Memorial & Museum, Poland

The extensive remains of this sinister camp are an hour and half from Krakow. I knew the experience wasn't going to be a happy one, but felt compelled to go. Instead of the usual sounds of group chit-chat and camera shutters snapping, the four-hour tour here was silent. After seeing rooms stacked with stolen personal items, including human hair, it is impossible not to feel sick to your stomach. Unfortunately, history can be cruel.

Drive to Cesky Krumlov, Czech Republic

This stunning 17th-century town sits on a peninsula in the Vltava River, overlooked by an immense Renaissance castle.

You could walk the entire town in two hours, but it's much more enjoyable to meander your way through the cobblestone streets. Take the audio tour of the castle, linger in the unique art shops and stop for a goblet or three of mead at the Two Marys medieval tavern.

The tour of Auschwitz is solemn and silent. LOREN CHRISTIE

Drive to Prague, Czech Republic

With only two days in Prague, it would be impossible to do justice to all of the big name sites; Prague Castle, Old Town Square, Wenceslas Square.

Instead I followed my feet and wandered through the city's varied neighbourhoods. I did end up spending two hours on the Charles Street Bridge, transfixed by the interactions of buskers, artists and tourists underneath the baroque statues that line the parapets. I had an incredible Bohemian meal at the Blue Duckling, about a 10-minute walk from the bridge on the castle side. For the more budget conscious, I found fantastic pubs that brewed their own beer and happily served up a pint alongside a plate of goulash for less than ten dollars.

There's no place like home: Workers would rather telecommute than move

Staying on task while staying put. As more employees opt to work remotely, we consider how to do your best from your own nest

SIDNEYVEE

If you're a student, a recent grad, or an entrepreneurial startup type, chances are you're well-versed in working from home, at the library, and in various cafés around town.

In a new study conducted by Ipsos Reid on behalf of the Canadian Employee Relocation Council, researchers found that when it comes to the Canadian employment mobility landscape, more than half of those (55 per cent) who are currently employed would not relocate for a job under any circumstance.

Ask those who consider themselves under-employed and the percentage jumps to 6.5 out of 10. That still leaves a considerable percentage of workers who would greatly prefer to stay put, all things considered.

Remote (but tethered) work-days

Considering these figures, more employees and their companies may need to consider telecommuting options and using mobile technology and broadband connections to enable distributed (rather than co-located) teams.

Good news, then, that research shows part-time and flexible work-from-home strategies, if properly implemented, can have a positive impact for both businesses and staff.

With funding from the National Institutes of Health and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, sociologists at the University of Minnesota have published a study showing that increased flexibility at work results in wide-ranging benefits.

Those study participants who were allowed to modify when and where they worked experienced fewer family-work conflicts, achieved greater well-being due to a sense of sched-

Set the scene for agile productivity

- When you're mobile and working out-of-home, an extra portable battery charger for tablets and phones is a lifesaver.

Before buying, read the fine print and user reviews to determine whether it will charge your gadget batteries once, twice, or 10 times.

- To work smarter on your smartphone, load it up with time-tracking, list-making, product-managing apps.

- If you're in charge of your own schedule, be sure to determine your optimal working hours, and set clear boundaries (including with family and friends) to protect your personal prime time.

- To manage distractions at home or out-and-about, the combination of a social site blocker and some noise-cancelling headphones will put and keep you in the zone.

- If you're lucky enough to have dedicated office space at home, protect your body from soreness, numbness or strain by doing a little research into economical and ergonomically correct office furnishings.

- For an added productivity boost, paint one wall green. "Seeing greens on surfaces has been linked to thinking creatively," advises design and environmental psychologist Sally Augustin.

- Not ready to paint your walls? Get an office plant instead, to add a touch of greenery to your space, and because research indicates that sharing your desk with foliage or flowers will make you feel happier, too.

stave off elimination in the NHL Eastern Conference final.

The Rangers, who lead the series 3-2, will have another chance to book a trip to the Stanley Cup final in Game 6 on Thursday night in New York.

Alex Galchenyuk, Tomas Plekanec and Max Pacioretty also scored for Montreal, which outshot the Rangers 28-27.

Derek Stepan, playing with a guard on his helmet to protect a broken jaw suffered from a Brandon Prust hit in Game 3, returned to the lineup to score twice for the Rangers. Chris Kreider had a goal and three assists and Rick Nash also scored.

At 10:41 of the third, Rangers defenceman John Moore was given a major penalty and was ejected for a blindside, open ice hit on Dale Weise that was almost identical to Prust's hit on Stepan.

It was a night of strange bounces and spotty goaltending. Lundqvist was pulled in favour of Cam Talbot after allowing four goals on 19 shots, while Dustin Tokarski stayed in despite allowing four on his first 14. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russell Westbrook had 40 points and 10 assists, and the Oklahoma City Thunder beat the San Antonio Spurs 105-92 on Tuesday night to tie the Western Conference final at two games apiece.

It matched the second-highest playoff point total of Westbrook's career, falling short of the 43 he scored in the 2012 NBA Finals. He also had five rebounds and five steals.

said in a post-game interview with TNT. "I just try to come out and give maximum effort. My teammates ask that of me and that's what I try to do on both ends of the floor."

Kevin Durant added 31 points on 11-for-22 shooting. It was his highest-scoring game of the series after the NBA's leading scorer was held to a 22.7-point average in the first three games. Serge Ibaka added nine points and eight rebounds for the Thunder, who have turned around the series since he returned from an injury that was expected to keep him out for the rest of the post-season.

Boris Diaw had 14 points and 10 rebounds, and Tony Parker added 14 points for the Spurs, who blew a 2-0 lead against the Thunder in this round two years ago and are in danger of doing it again.

Oklahoma City dominated for the second consecutive game after getting blown out in the first two. The Thunder committed just seven turnovers and shot 49 per cent from the field.

French Open

Li Na, Wawrinka stunned in Round 1

Much to her dismay, Li Na is familiar with this feeling.

She earns a Grand Slam championship, is heralded at home, then shows up at subsequent major tournaments and seemingly forgets how to win.

It happened in 2011, after her French Open triumph made her China's first player with a Grand Slam singles title. Happened again Tuesday, when Li was seeded second at Roland Garros but lost to someone ranked 103rd in the first round, not quite four months removed from winning the Australian Open.

Her 7-5, 3-6, 6-1 exit against Kristina Mladenovic of France in front of a partisan crowd on a cloudy, windy Day 3 came about 16 hours after the men's Australian Open champion, third-seeded Stan Wawrinka, was beaten in Paris.

It's the first time that the men's and women's singles champions from the previous major lost in the first round.

'No fun' Jays roll to eighth straight

Some call it the Ed-wing. Others describe it as taking the parrot for a walk.

When Edwin Encarnacion rounds first base on his home run trot, he raises his right arm slightly and sticks out his elbow. It has become a very familiar sight during the Blue Jays' season-high eight-game winning streak.

The Toronto slugger homered for the third straight game as the Blue Jays outscored the Tampa Bay Rays 9-6 on Tuesday night at Rogers Centre. Encarnacion hit one of three Toronto homers and starter Mark Buehrle picked up his major league-leading ninth victory for the American League East division leaders.

Encarnacion, who has hit 14 of his 16 homers in May, also tied Jose Bautista's club record for most homers in a month set back in June 2012.

"You can't describe it," said Blue Jays manager John Gibbons. "I've been seeing that parrot a lot, that's for sure."

Adam Lind and Juan Francisco also went deep for the Blue Jays, who outhit the Rays 13-12. Toronto has won 13 of its last 15 games and 18 of 23.

"They're no fun right now," said Rays manager Joe Maddon. "Everything they've got going on right now seems to be working."

Buehrle (9-1), meanwhile, allowed eight hits and three earned runs over 6 2/3 innings. He wasn't as sharp as previous starts but kept the damage to a minimum. THE CANADIAN PRESS

In every episode of Jerry Seinfeld's online show, Comedians In Cars Getting Coffee, he picks up a well-known comic in a classic car chosen to mesh with their personality. The series' strongest episodes are the ones where Jerry's automotive sommelier skills have managed to orchestrate the perfect pairing, and the selected set of wheels truly embodies his celeb guest's spirit.

Howard Stern 1969 Pontiac GTO Judge

The badass showy muscle car with hideaway headlights, a blacked out grille and a take-no-prisoners four barrel 370 hp V8 is a fitting chariot for the shock jock/America's Got Talent hotshot.

Its "All Rise" mentality suits the randy radio host to a tee; the only thing Seinfeld messed up was the colour. A starlight black version would have been a better fit than the vivid citrus orange, but at least it's got a black leather interior.

Jay Leno 1949 Porsche 356/2

One of the first production cars the company produced, this stunning Porsche was built using mostly Volkswagen parts. The aluminum body was hand-hammered in a sawmill in Gmünd, Austria and the interior came decked out with plush corduroy upholstery. The rare classic is as regal as the ex-Tonight Show host's chin and only 52 were ever made. "I love it because to me it looks like a little alien flying saucer," Jerry quips.

Comedians in Cars Getting Coffee guest stars and their on-air wheels

Louis C.K. 1959 Fiat Jolly

Jolly translates to "Joker" in Italian and you certainly need a sense of whimsy to take this doorless leisure buggy with wicker seats and a two-cylinder 22 hp engine for a spin. They were actually marketed as a glamorous golf cart or yachting shore rider for when in port.

The excruciatingly honest comedian who writes/acts/stars in FX's Louie can't help but take potshots at the car that is the same shade of orange as his goatee. After remarking that he can drag his knuckles on the street while they drive, he notes, "It's funny because people are right there, there's a bicyclist and my face is at his ass level." Schtick aside, C.K.'s ties to the Jolly go beyond colour matching: he is actually a yacht guy and he takes Seinfeld for a cruise on the Hudson River.

Patton Oswalt 1981 DeLorean DMC-12

Performance-wise, the DeLorean it left a lot to be desired, and on the episode it barely leaves Oswalt's curb before breaking down with smoke billowing out of the engine echoing Oswalt's start and stall career.

Keeping cool this summer

Hot rides. Simple maintenance can help keep things cool on the road this summer. Your vehicle, and riders, will thank you.

JUSTIN
drive@metronews.ca

For us humans, the hot weather is one of the most eagerly anticipated parts of the summer season — but for our vehicles, that lovely heat means additional strain on vital components every time we hit the road with the family.

Poorly maintained parts tend to show themselves when vehicles are pushed to extremes.

As such, a sweltering summer day is a fantastic time for overheating, driveline failure or engine damage, if your cooling system isn't performing properly. Fortunately, readying your cooling system for warm-weather travelling is a relatively quick and painless endeavour.

In addition to keeping your engine running at its ideal operating temperature, your cooling system may play a part in keeping other components, like your transmission, from overheating as well.

Your cooling system works by circulating coolant throughout the engine to absorb and remove the tremendous heat generated by its operation.

Over time, the effectiveness of that coolant diminishes, and a coolant change is required.

This occurs in varying intervals for different vehicles, or on an 'as-needed' basis as advised by your mechanic.

A proper cooling system check should include a look at coolant level and effectiveness, the thermostat and the water-pump belt, if applicable.

The radiator and associated hoses and lines should be inspected as well, and a visual check for leaks is also important. A periodic radiator flush is also advisable to remove harmful sludge from within the cooling system. Sludge may accumulate within the radiator and hoses over time, reducing effectiveness and component life.

Put another way, a coolant flush ensures everything is functioning properly, from the inside out.

Protecting your engine from the heat this summer is only half the battle. You'll want to ensure you and your passengers benefit from an effective air conditioning system, too.

If your AC seems hesitant to blow cold, or if it isn't cooling the cabin as quickly as it used to, an inspection is in order. This inspection can often reveal a small problem before it escalates into a much larger and pricier one.

If you're uncomfortable performing vehicle-related work yourself, your favourite mechanic would be happy to help.

Most cooling and air-conditioning maintenance can be carried out quickly the next time your vehicle is in the shop for an oil-change or tune up.

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Be as carefree as you please over the next 24 hours. No one will mind in the least. Not that you care what others think but it's nice to have fun without being called irresponsible.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

You must hold out for what it is you know you deserve. The planets indicate it will be your rivals who blink first, so look and act tough and be tough in your approach to negotiations.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

A new moon in your sign suggests whatever you start over the next 24 hours will work out well. Don't listen to those who say you should be cautious. It's your time to shine.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Because today's new moon falls in the most sensitive area of your chart, your best course of action over the next 48 hours is to withdraw from the world for 12 months. They'll be special.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

If you need advice of any sort today, don't be afraid to ask your friends. The current new moon means they will help in any way they can, but you need to ask them first. They won't just offer their opinions.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

A new moon in the career area of your chart will give you the courage to make necessary changes on the work front. It's your life, it's your career and it's your choice as to what you do with them both.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You have a lot to say for yourself and most of it is worth listening to, but be careful you don't say anything that might upset people whose support you are going to need.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

If you have been thinking of ways to make money, now is the time to come to a decision about your strategy. What you start over the next few days will reap rich rewards during the second half of the year.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

It may be that your rivals have the advantage but what happens today and tomorrow will give you the courage, as well as the opportunity, to turn the tables on them.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Keep doing what you are doing and don't listen to those who say you should be doing something else. The more they try to pick holes in your plans, the more certain you can be that you're on the right track.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Today's new moon in your fellow Air sign of Gemini will inspire you to put your talents to good use. Relationships will go well too, so be assertive and dynamic and make sure others know what it is you desire.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Be more open about your feelings, especially if you are the kind of Pisces who tends to keep your emotions bottled up inside. It is good to release the pressure. SALLY BROMPTON
